11. Francesca, a cognitive behavioral therapist, likes to give homework assignments to her clients. What might her rationale be for doing this?
- Homework can be a vehicle for assisting her clients in putting into action what they are learning in therapy.
  - By assigning homework to her clients, she establishes her clear authority over them (as if she is their teacher).
  - She is probably a novice therapist who is insecure about her skills; thus, by assigning homework, she may feel like she is being more productive.
  - In order to be reimbursed by insurance companies, Francesca is required to give her clients homework assignments.
